Penn Student Trudges Unwillingly to School, While Bride Sips Her Coffee

ROMANCE JUST STARTING

Such as have still a faith in the romantic fitness of things are invited to regard a close-up of Dayton B. Scadden and the erstwhile Marge Cheney of Walnut Lane School, taking silent and sacramental embrace beside an opalescent lake, and in the background, Horace Cheney, of Concord, N. H., watching with new dawned understanding in his eyes.

Thus, out of the eternal yesterday into the glow of the golden moments, (Plate solo "Hearts and Flowers.") All this, of course, symbolically speaking. Actually, Mr. Cheney has gone back to Concord, in a lower berth, after having banded his heart considerably and successfully to make room there for Scadden.

At 8:30 o'clock this morning Scadden was trudging lonesomely toward the University at Lehigh, where he is a student in the law. He is wearing a blue suit and a red tie, and is carrying a briefcase. He is looking back over his shoulder at the University building, which is still in the distance. He is looking at it with a look of longing and regret. He is looking at it with a look of longing and regret.

"Pleased to meet you," said Scadden. "How are you, Dayton?" said Mr. Cheney gravely. "I hope that Marge is well." "Yes, sir," said Scadden. "After giving him a cigar and shaking hands again, Cheney went out and sent passing telegrams to Concord. Then he bought his ticket. This morning a reporter strolling into the restaurant found a young man seated alone at one of the tables, sipping his coffee with the wrong end of a spoon while he dreamily regarded a daffodil on the wallpaper. "Eh?—ah, yes, how are you?" he said dreamily, and kept adding sugar to his coffee. Mrs. Scadden, he said, was still up stairs, which Scadden's friends had vainly tried to open for him. The young man sighed and looked at his watch. "I must get over to classes," he said. "Got to study hard and make money, you know. Going to have children and all that." "I shall be there until about 2 o'clock. But my heart won't be in it. If you want to know where my heart is, you know. Going to have children and all that." A half hour later a heavy-eyed young lady was sitting at the same table regarding the same wall paper daffodil. Her heart doubtless was at the University of Pennsylvania.

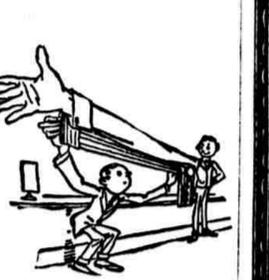

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH

South Randolph Street Girl Played With Matches
Rose Segal, seven years old, 2745 South Randolph street, was burned to death last night when her clothing caught on fire while playing with matches. The child's mother was absent from the house. Screams attracted Policeman DeRose, who rushed into the house and extinguished the flame. The girl was taken to the Methodist Hospital, where she died.

HOODOO PURSUES MOVIE STAR

Pearl White, American moving-picture actress, now a star in the Casino revue in Paris, seems to be pursued by a hoodoo. Her latest misfortune occurred yesterday, when a fire in the Casino destroyed her entire wardrobe and most of the scenery used in the revue.

RANGE CITY COMMISSION OUSTED IN BITTER FIGHT

Spectacular Overthrow is Attributed to Votes of Women
Newark, N. J., May 10.—(By A. P.) A spectacular overthrow of the controlling forces in the Orange City Commission featured the three commission government elections held in Essex county yesterday.

Mayor William Lord and Commissioner Shoenthal, Director of Public Safety, running in combination, were defeated for re-election, and Commissioner Roach, Director of Public Improvement, the other member of their coup, just ousted in the successful fight. Frank J. Murray will be mayor when the new board organizes next week.

31GIGGEST LINER'S FIRST TRIP

Majestic, 56,000 Tons, Leaves England for New York
Southampton, May 10.—(By A. P.)—Thousands of persons witnessed the departure today of the White Star Line's new 56,000-ton steamship, Majestic, the world's largest liner, on her maiden voyage to New York. The liner, which was originally built for the Hamburg-American Line at Hamburg, but was bought by the White Star Company, developed nearly twenty-five knots an hour on her trial trips, and is expected to make a speedy trip on her first Atlantic crossing. She is about 2000 tons larger than the Leviathan, her nearest rival in size.

DOCTORS TURN GIRL'S FOOT

Remarkable Operation is Performed Here on Essington Child
One of the most remarkable operations in months at the Philadelphia General Hospital has been performed successfully on Clara Cox, of Essington. The girl's right foot was twisted almost completely around. The deformity was caused by infantile paralysis, an aftermath of influenza. After special treatment, continuing for nearly a year, surgeons at the hospital operated on the foot recently and restored it to its normal position.

50,000 BOYS WILL PARADE FOR PRIZES

Pageant Next Saturday Also to Feature "Largest" Phila. Families

BANDS GET SPECIAL AWARDS

The 50,000 lads in the boy parade on Broad street from Girard avenue to Federal street next Saturday will "step out" for a score of valuable awards offered for particular still or pre-impersonation.

In addition to the prize for the parents of the largest number of brothers who appear as a unit in the parade, the Musical Art Club has donated a generous sum for the "most meritorious performance by a boys' band." Never before have the little fellows competed on such a large scale.

"Most meritorious performance" means the award will be made not necessarily to the best band, but to the band which, by reason of the tenorages or physical handicaps of its players, appears to the judges to have attained the greatest skill.

The little lads who can "do" Jackie Coogan to perfection will be handsomely rewarded in a special unit of the line. The impersonation will be limited to lads under ten years of age. Another prize will go to the best impersonator of Wesley Barry.

The bicycle rider who displays the greatest skill in equipping his "bike" with radio apparatus will get another prize, and the riders of the best decorated bicycles similarly will be rewarded. The bicycle division will be composed of about 4000 lads, who will be entertained at the close of the parade by an exhibition of trick riding by Fred St. Onge, the "bicycle evangelist."

Superintendent of Police Mills said today the parade will move from Girard avenue at exactly half past 1 o'clock whether the units are ready or not. "We have learned how to start parades promptly and we must maintain the record we made during the war," he said.

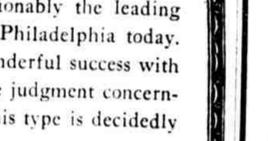

Dellmaster Edwards, who is assisting Superintendent Mills, was given the line-up of the parade yesterday afternoon, and he is preparing the formation points. Charles W. Bainbridge, chairman of the Parade Committee, said the location of the formation points of the various units will be made public as soon as possible.

PEARL WHITE'S WARDROBE LOST IN PARIS CASINO FIRE

Blaze Sweeps Dressing Rooms and Destroys Stage Scenery
Paris, May 10.—The hoodoo which has been pursuing Pearl White, American moving picture actress, and giving her more adventures since she became star in the Casino revue than she ever had on the screen, appeared again yesterday afternoon, when fire broke out in her dressing room and destroyed her entire wardrobe.

Miss White's passion for the races led to her absence from the theatre when the blaze was discovered. All the costumes and most of the scenery were destroyed, the total loss being about 1,000,000 francs. The Casino is one of the foremost theatres in Paris.

This is the second mishap that has befallen the American screen star since she began playing here. A short time ago during a performance a heavy weight fell in the theatre and Miss White had a narrow escape. Fleeman said that a short circuit of electric wires probably caused the fire. Miss White will be idle for the next few weeks.

PASSION PLAY REHEARSAL STAGED IN OBERAMMERGAU

Performance Reveals Acting of Former High Order
Oberammergau, Bavaria, May 10.—(By A. P.)—Today's informal presentation of the Passion Play before an invited audience of official guests, among whom were several hundred German and foreign newspaper correspondents, gave evidence that the Bavarian peasants and players were not relaxing in devotion to their ancient vow, and that the twelve years' intermission had not stagnated their appreciation of the simple but moving art of acting in this historic religious pageant.

The performance today was in the nature of a final dress rehearsal, and revealed individual and collective acting of such a high order that the patrons of subsequent performances will not have occasion to regret their journey to this picturesque upland village. Moreover, the peasants as hosts, as was demonstrated today, know how to make an army of tourists feel at home so far as physical comforts are concerned.

Anton Lang, who plays the role of the Nazarene for the third time, continues to be the outstanding figure in the cast. His voice is now rich and mellow. The role of Judas, as played by Guido Mayer, particularly invites comment. Somewhat suggestive of pantomime, his impersonation furnishes one of the most conspicuous pieces of acting in the whole performance. Hans Mayer as Pilate, and Martha Vits, as Mary Magdalene, complete the list of leading characters in the cast. The musical interpolations by the chorus, under the leadership of Guido Diemer, as well as the mass scenes, furnish other distinctive features of the production.

The members of the Bavarian Cabinet, led by Premier Loecherer, and a large number of Bavarian parliamentary leaders were among today's guests. The first public performance will be given next Sunday, for which a capacity audience already has been assured.

Sack Suit Model For Sport or Usual Wear

The Driver—one of our own creations—is unquestionably the leading Sport Model in Philadelphia today. It has been a wonderful success with young men whose judgment concerning clothing of this type is decidedly worth while.

The Driver combines all the elements of a Sport Suit for Motoring or Golf, and is equally well adapted to usual wear.

Perfect freedom of arm action is attained by the inverted side plaits from shoulder seam to belt. The gathered plaits at the waistline, with the half belt, add to the generally "smart" and distinctive lines of the garment, making it a model of unusual attraction—one which is highly favored by men who are seeking a style which can be used for both business and sport.

We are specializing the Driver in an abundant variety of Imported and American Tweeds, Cheviots, Homespun, at $45 and $50.
